PRIVACY POLICY

In today's world, privacy of personal information and how that information is protected are important considerations. This privacy notice discloses the privacy practices for the Law Office of Gavin M. Ganzkow, PLLC (the "Firm") and the Firm's website at the URL <http://www.ganzkowlaw.com>. This privacy notice applies solely to information collected by this website, unless where stated otherwise. It will notify you of the following:

- what information is collected;
- with whom it is shared;
- how it can be corrected;
- how it is secured;
- how policy changes will be communicated.

Information Collection, Use and Sharing

The Firm is the sole owner of the information collected on this site. We only have access to and collect information that you voluntarily provide via email, via the contact form, questionnaires or worksheets on the site or other direct contact from you. We will not sell or rent this information to anyone. We will use your information to respond to you, regarding the reason you contacted the Firm. We will not share your information with any third party outside of the Firm, other than as necessary to respond to your requests or administer the website and the services the Firm provides.

Should you use the "Contact Us" form on the Firm's website, we request that you do not submit any confidential, proprietary or sensitive personally identifiable information (such as your Social Security Number or credit card information) on the form.

The Firm may share aggregated demographic information with third parties who provide services to us. This is not linked to any personal information that can identify any individual person. For example, this website uses Google Analytics to analyze and improve website performance. Information on Google's use of data collected by this service may be found at www.google.com/policies/privacy/partners/.

The Firm may use an independent vendor to process credit card payments from clients for services. These third parties do not retain, share, store or use personally identifiable information for any secondary purposes beyond completing the transaction at hand.

The Firm uses "cookies" on this website. A cookie is a data file stored on a site visitor's hard drive to help improve access to the site and identify repeat visitors to our site. Cookies can also enable the Firm to track the interests of our users to enhance their experience on the site. Usage of a cookie is in no way linked to any personally identifiable information on our site. You may choose to accept or decline cookies by modifying your Web browser. Should you choose to decline cookies, this may affect the functionality of certain features of the website.

Additionally, information about your visit may be tracked and stored in web server logs, which are records of the activities on the Firm's website. This information is captured and saved electronically. Information collected in web server logs helps administer the website, analyze its usage, protect the website and its content from inappropriate use and improve the user's experience.

This website may contain links to other websites. Please be aware that the Firm is not responsible for the content or privacy practices of such other sites.

Information Security

The Firm takes certain appropriate security measures to help protect your personal information from accidental loss and from unauthorized access, use or disclosure. For instance, only a member of the Firm who needs access to information to perform a specific task (such as providing legal services) has access to personally identifiable information. Computers on which personally identifiable information is stored are kept in a secure environment. However, the Firm can not guarantee that unauthorized persons will always be unable to defeat these security measures.

Information Correction or Amendment

Contact the Firm via the phone number, contact form or mailing address on our website at any time to update or correct information or to delete incorrect or dated information from our records.

Privacy Policy Changes

If the Firm's privacy policy changes or is amended in any material way, the changes or amendments will be posted in a link on the Firm website to a revised statement.

If you do not agree to this privacy policy, please do not use this website or any services offered on it. Your use of this website constitutes acceptance of this privacy policy.
